Citycism

THE Chinese community has ushered in the Year of the Tiger. While red remains ubiquitous, Chinese New Year hampers can hardly be seen anymore.

While they will be back for the Year of the Rabbit, what is doubtful is whether liquor bottles can be part of the gift hamper in future.

Two-and-a-half months into the enforcement of its new guidelines on the sale of liquor, Kuala Lumpur City Hall (DBKL) gave affected retailers — which included sundry shops, convenience stores and Chinese medicine halls — a two-month grace period allowing them to continue selling liquor.

This, according to the local authority, was a “goodwill gesture in conjunction with Chinese New Year celebrations” and to enable shops in the city to clear their stock.

Some might think these retailers owe DBKL a debt of gratitude but in reality, most if not all Chinese sundry shops and medicine halls had been disregarding the guidelines weeks before the local authority came to a decision to offer some respite to these retailers.

The month leading up to Chinese New Year is a bonanza for these retailers.

The festive season gives them an opportunity to generate more reve-

Retailers caught between a rock and a hard place regarding new liquor ruling that they deem unfair nue through the sale of hampers, with gift-giving being a time-honoured tradition among members of the Chinese community.

Selling hampers, of course, is not an offence.

The real deal, however, is the sale of hampers containing liquor.

As one retailer put it, “A hamper without liquor is like soup without salt. A bottle of brandy of any brand can change the whole complexion of a hamper and push sales to a significantly higher level.”

This explains why most retailers did not hesitate to pack and sell hampers as soon as they had submitted appeals for temporary liquor licences.

Truth is they would rather risk being fined than wait for the authority's approval.

Running foul of government regulations is not an act that should be condoned.

Can you, however, blame them as they believe it is grossly unfair?

To many, the new DBKL ruling reeks more of a bathtub gin amateurish produced than a premium vodka meticulously manufactured.

When the problem confronting

A bottle of liquor adds a touch of luxury to a Chinese New Year hamper.

the community is the misuse of alcohol, it makes little sense to regulate the availability of hard liquor without stricter control on the sale of beer — the preferred beverage of the drinking community in Malaysia.

Also, it is hard not to doubt the effective enforcement.

Regulation without enforcement equals inefficiency.

Perhaps DBKL needs to improve its enforcement to rein in the consumption of cheap illicit alcohol instead of imposing more regulations, which may prove counterproductive.

Besides opening up a new avenue for corruption, every new rule entails more resources to ensure effective enforcement.

Also, while the ruling may curb the sale of illicit alcoholic drinks, what is stopping affected retailers from selling permitted alcohol that comes through legal channels, illegally?

Government regulation is almost always a case of too much is never enough, borrowing the title of Mary L. Trump's tell-all book Too Much and Never Enough on her uncle, former US president Donald Trump.

Even the death penalty has not stopped illegal gun possession or drug trafficking.

Greater regulation calls for smart utilisation of resources and when not done effectively, translates into huge losses in tax revenue for the government while poor enforcement breeds disrespect for the law.

Celebrations for the Year of the Tiger are still ongoing.

The ear-piercing noise from fireworks and fire crackers in my neighbourhood is annoying.

Is it not illegal to own and set off firecrackers and fireworks?

I wonder why so many are allowed to thumb their noses at the law while others are threatened with punishment for not abiding with ill-conceived and poorly thought out rules and regulations.

effectiveness of the new ruling when restrictions apply only to small- and medium-sized shops, but not hypermarkets and supermarkets in malls.

If DBKL believes that the ruling is an effective way to curb the sale of illicit samsu and other types of illegal cheap liquor, one has to wonder what they were thinking before coming to the conclusion.

You can't classify something as illicit or illegal without having the proper rules and regulations in place, can you?

Why create more regulations when existing rules are already there to deal with the issue of illicit cheap liquor which is the cause of multiple social problems.

In short, regulating consumption of alcohol is a complex matter.

It takes more than mere control of its availability to achieve results. A high level of community support and proper provision of healthcare services, among others, are needed to address this social menace.

It is folly to believe that more regulation is the answer, especially when rules are imposed without

'Be ready to face challenges'

KL must also ensure no group is marginalised, says PM

KUALA LUMPUR: Kuala Lumpur city must be better prepared to face future challenges and ensure no group is marginalised in line with the principle of the Malaysian Family, says Prime Minister Datuk Seri Ismail Sabri Yaakob.

He said Kuala Lumpur City Hall (DBKL) needed to be dynamic and productive in managing issues besides improving its delivery services.

He noted the lower-income (B40) group, for example, must be given due attention to ensure their basic needs are addressed.

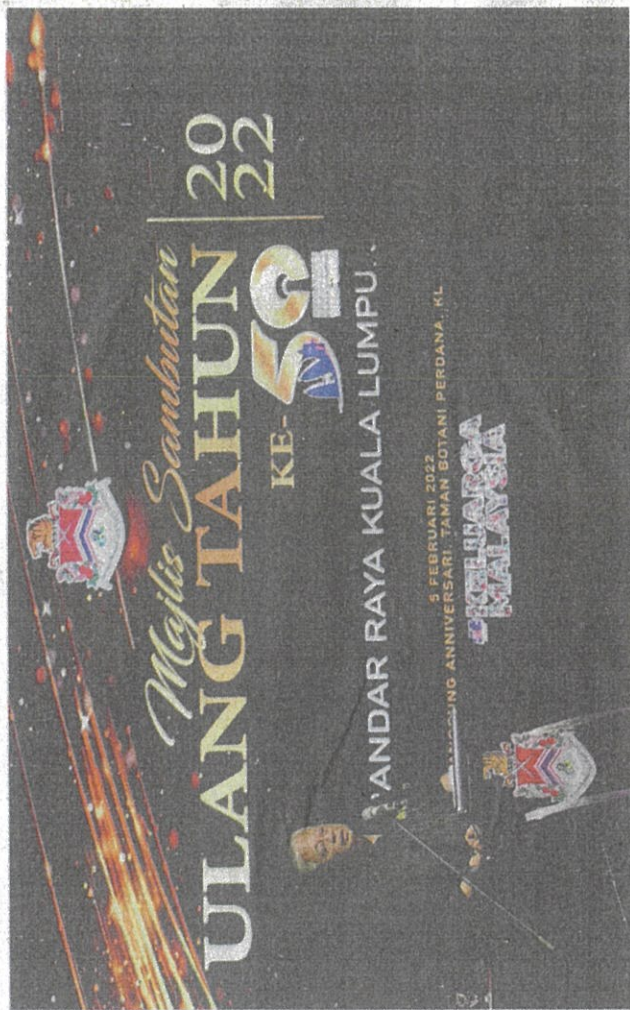

Ismail Sabri said this in his speech when launching the 50th-anniversary celebration of Kuala Lumpur's city status at the Perdana Botanical Gardens here last night.

The formation of a sustainable city for all must take into account the economic needs of a city and the real attraction of a city is its ability to create jobs, he said.

Ismail Sabri noted Kuala Lumpur, which was once a small and quiet tin mining town with nipah roof houses, was now bustling with skyscrapers and rapid housing development.

He said Kuala Lumpur is known for its great landmarks such as the Petronas Twin Towers which once made history as the tallest building in the world, while the Merdeka 118 is the second tallest tower in the world after Burj Khalifa.

The Prime Minister also announced the 'Keluarga Malaysia Kuala Lumpur Well-Being Package' (PKKMKL) aimed at improving the quality of life and faster online services.

He noted DBKL was currently in the process of turning Kuala Lumpur into a city with zero-poverty status.

"To enable city dwellers to have a more comfortable life, DBKL will build 5,000 council homes with a minimum area of 750sq ft to be rented out," he said.

Ismail Sabri said DBKL will also repair 306 lifts at 31 people's housing and public housing projects within two years.

"Besides these, to ensure the safety of city folks, security in Kuala Lumpur will be enhanced with closed-circuit television (CCTV) cameras from the Kuala Lumpur Command and Control Center," he said.

Ismail Sabri added DBKL will also provide pedestrian walkways, cycling paths and green networks as well as upgrade hawkker stalls at older hawkker centres and also licensed roadside stalls.

DBKL, he said, would approve business premises licence applications within 24 hours, and within three days for small-scale development construction permit applications.

In addition, he said a 10% rebate will be given throughout the year for payments involving all application fees as an incentive to encourage city folks to conduct business online.

Meanwhile, Ismail Sabri said he also fully supported Kuala Lumpur's initiative to help Malaysia's target of being a carbon-neutral country by 2050, adding for this to be realised, the nation's capital must develop and progress alongside other major cities in the world.

Foundation foots bill to rebuild razed longhouses

By FARID WAHAB

faridwahab@thestar.com.my

YAYASAN Wilayah Persekutuan (YWP) has agreed to rebuild five longhouses that were razed in a fire in Bukit Kiara, Taman Tun Dr Ismail last month.

Deputy Federal Territories

Minister Datuk Seri Jalaluddin

Alias said the new houses that cost RM40,000 each would also come with basic home appliances.

"The new houses are scheduled to be completed and safe for occupancy within three months.

"Unlike the previous wooden units, they will be made of bricks for better security," he said during a clean-up at the site that saw the participation of some 100 volunteers from YWP, the Social Welfare Department and residents.

The half-day programme was to clean up the area to allow construction to begin.

Earlier last month, YWP donated food baskets and bedding items to the households affected by the fire that happened on Jan 9 midnight.

Jalaluddin advised the residents to be more mindful when dealing with electrical appliances to prevent fires.

"These kinds of accidents can be avoided if we are careful. Thankfully, there were no casualties," he said.

Resident Krishna Kunari

Letchumanan, 61, who lived with her 81-year-old father, estimated her loss to be around RM50,000.

"I run a grocery shop. All my goods were destroyed including two refrigerators. My father and I are living at my sister's house nearby for now," she said.

YWP chief executive officer Datuk Zaizalnazam Zaimun said the foundation welcomed donations from the private sector and individuals to help the victims.

"We also hope this gotong-royong will foster a stronger relationship between our staff and city folk," he added.

The settlement near Jalan Tun Mohd Fuad has been around for the past 40 years and comprises some 100 longhouses.

Nafi warga asing monopoli Chow Kit

Oleh ARIF AIMAN ASROL
utusannews@mediamulia.com.my

PETALING JAYA: Persatuan Penjaja dan Peniaga Kecil Melayu Wilayah Persekutuan (PPPK-MWP) menafikan keberadaan peniaga atau penjaja warga asing di Pasar Chow Kit atau dikenali sebagai Pasar Raja Bot yang kembali beroperasi.

Setiausaha Agung PPPKMWP, Sharin Darus berkata, pihaknya menolak dakwaan wujud kelompok warga asing yang memonopoli pusat dagangan itu hingga mengganggu penjaja tempatan lain.

Katanya, kelompok peniaga warga asing yang menyewa tapak secara haram hanya wujud sebelum Perintah Kawalan Per-gerakan (PKP) dan bukan pada waktu ini.

“Untuk mengekang masalah ini daripada berulang, PPPKMWP bersama Dewan Bandaraya Kuala Lumpur (DBKL) dan Polis Diraja Malaysia (PDRM) Dang Wangi serta persatuan lain sentiasa melakukan pemantauan dari semasa ke semasa.

“Seramai 14 petugas daripada PPPKMWP ditugaskan setiap hari untuk menjaga aktiviti keluar masuk di sini dan menjaga SOP setiap pelanggan yang hadir untuk membeli barang dagangan. Jadi saya menafikan perkara dakwaan itu,” katanya ketika dihubungi.

Sabtu lalu, akhbar ini melaporkan terdapat lambakan peniaga asing di pasar borong itu yang kebanyakannya terdiri daripada warga Indonesia manakala pekerja asingnya pula daripada etnik Rohingya dan Bangladesh.

Malah, semasa tinjauan terdapat beberapa peniaga mengeluh kerana perniagaan mereka terjejas berikutan banjiriran sebanyak 90 peratus warga asing dan terdapat pihak ‘menjaga’ mereka.

Mengulas dakwaan peniaga itu, Sharin yang juga Ketua Cawangan PPPKMWP Raja Bot berkata, tiada peniaga warga asing di pasar tersebut tetapi hanya sebilangan orang luar dijadikan sebagai pekerja oleh warga tempatan kerana kekurangan tenaga kerja untuk menjalankan operasi.

Urgent repairs needed at riverbank in Brickfields

City Hall urged to fix broken tiles, street lights and railings

Cyclists are annoyed with people who obstruct the blue cycling lane. (Right) This street light at the RoL walking path is missing its cover and exposed wires pose a risk to visitors.

OUTDOOR enthusiasts are delighted with the new and improved River of Life (RoL) jogging and cycling lane along the riverbank in Brickfields, Kuala Lumpur.

However, many claim that the 3km track from Dataran Merdeka to Mid Valley City is not safe in some places.

They say dozens of street lights along the walking path are not working while at some spots, tiles are giving way and joggers are tripping over them.

In some stretches, railings along the path have also come off, believed to be the work of vandals.

Those living in the area also want these parts of the infrastructure repaired to prevent injuries.

"It's a fantastic project by Kuala Lumpur City Hall (DBKL), and I enjoy my morning walks there.

"But some of the infrastructure are in need of repairs," said Jayanti Krishnan, a resident of Villa Scott condo.

"I have to be mindful of my children when walking there in the evenings as it can be a bit dangerous," added Selvi Kumar from Palm Court apartments.

Brickfields Rukun Tetangga chairman SKK Naidu, when contacted, said the residents' had valid concerns, especially regarding the street lights.

"Many people go for walks here after dinner.

"They complained that some street lights are not functioning.

"When I checked, more than half of the street lights were not working," he said, adding that if the lights were functioning, more people would be using the path.

Naidu was also upset with litterbugs who would leave empty liquor bottles at benches during the night.

StarMetro visited the site one night and noticed that some lights were not working, tiles in some parts of the walkway were broken and parts of the railings were missing.

The blue bicycle lane was also obstructed by cars, much to the annoyance of cyclists.

"There must be enforcement by the authorities. Otherwise, what is the point of all these facilities," said cyclist Kevin Tan.

It was reported that since a child fell into the blue pool area at the heart of the RoL site in Masjid Jamek last month, DBKL has been trying to find ways to upgrade the infrastructure there to ensure the public's safety.

King reminds rakyat to get their shots to control pandemic

KUALA LUMPUR: Those who have not been vaccinated against Covid-19 should do so, Yang di-Pertuan Agong Al-Sultan Abdullah Ri'ayatuddin Al-Mustafa Billah Shah said in a reminder to the people.

His Majesty said it included getting a booster dose to ensure the country could control the Covid-19 pandemic.

"The country is still not free from the pandemic, so let us all abide by the guidelines and regulations as part of efforts to combat Covid-19 that have been outlined by the government," he said at the investiture of Federal Territories awards, medals and honours in conjunction with the 2022 Federal Territory Day at Istana Negara here yesterday. Raja Permaisuri Agong Tunku Hajah Azizah Aminah Maimunah Iskandariah was also in attendance.

His Majesty conferred awards, honours and medals to 263 recipients at the investiture ceremony.

Meanwhile, Sultan Abdullah said that Malaysians should continue strengthening unity and avoid division.

"The foundation of a nation's strength is the bond and the spirit of unity and equality in upholding the principles of Rukun Negara to ensure that the country's sovereignty continues to be safeguarded," he said, reported Bernama.

His Majesty expressed appreciation for the commitment shown by the Federal Government led by Prime Minister Datuk Seri Ismail Sabri Yaakob to ensure success of the initiatives based on the principles of ensuring well-being, alleviating cost of living and improving life quality of the people in the Federal Territories (FT).

"Apart from that, assistance given to the poor in 178 low- and medium-cost housing areas in Kuala Lumpur had also helped in alleviating the cost of living of the urban poor," he said in his speech at the ceremony.

While congratulating FT Minister Datuk Seri Shahidan Kassim, Sultan Abdullah also lauded the government's commitment to making the FT more prosperous and sustainable for people from all walks of life through its affordable housing agenda.

His Majesty said the Residensi Prihatin Kluang Malaysia and the Residensi Wilayah Kluang Malaysia were among the initiatives that could help FT dwellers, especially those from the B40 and M40 groups, own comfortable and good quality houses.

Sultan Abdullah said efforts to provide quality and comprehensive infrastructure, and to redevelop abandoned and obsolete city areas, could turn the FT into fresher, livelier and liveable territories.

In this context, the King also expressed hope that the development of the FT into a world-class smart city by 2030, as well as a low-carbon city, could be realised.

Sultan Abdullah also touched on the recent massive flood disaster, which caused various problems to the people and had also affected the country's economic recovery process.

He said the government should come out with a long-term solution to the flood woes and empower the disaster management mechanisms.

In fact, Sultan Abdullah said the capital city of Kuala Lumpur and the Klang Valley, as the country's economic and financial centre, should have a proper contingency plan in facing floods.

Residents want right turn into Taman Rainbow reinstated

By SHALINI RAVINDRAN

TAMAN Rainbow residents in Kuala Lumpur are forced to take a longer route to enter their neighbourhood since the main access was closed to traffic for construction of the MRT 2 project about four years ago.

Residents of the housing estate claimed that they were told the closure would be temporary, but are concerned that it could be permanent as construction works are nearing completion.

Taman Rainbow Residents Association (RA) chairman Govindasamy Balaguru said residents travelling from Kuala Lumpur via Jalan Ipoh could no longer turn right into Jalan Kangsar, which used to provide direct access into the neighbourhood.

"Now, we have to make a U-turn further down the road to enter our neighbourhood.

"This is about 3km longer, excluding the wait time and traffic congestion we have to put up with," he told StarMetro.

Govindasamy, who is also Taman Rainbow Rukun Tetangga chairman, added that residents understood the need for the closure during the construction phase of the stated as the approved traffic plan involved permanent closure of the junction.

It added that Taman Rainbow RA representatives and residents were briefed on the approved traffic management plans in 2017.

"Following subsequent engagements with the RA and upon their request, we reinstated a right turn from Jalan Kangsar to Kepong.

"However, this was limited to light vehicles due to the height clearance of the MRT viaduct," the statement said.

It added that the permanent closure of the right turn from Kuala Lumpur to Jalan Kangsar was to enable the construction of the MRT Kentonment Station and viaduct at the median of Jalan Ipoh.

"At this location the elevated MRT viaduct progressively dives under the Duke expressway as it becomes half-sunken when approaching the MRT Jalan Ipoh Station.

"There is insufficient space and height clearance to safely provide a traffic light junction for a right turn into Taman Rainbow from Kuala Lumpur.

"As an alternative, traffic from Kuala Lumpur can head to Taman Rainbow via Taman Kaya by turning right at the Jalan St Thomas junction," said the statement.

Datukship a massive recognition of Mun Yee and Abdul Latif's contributions

By LIM TEIK HUAT

PETALING JAYA: Two-time Paralympic champion Abdul Latif Romly and former national diver Leong Mun Yee earned massive recognition for the Malaysian sporting community when they were both conferred with Datukships.

The two athletes who have made the nation proud in their respective sporting disciplines were bestowed with Panglima Mahkota Wilayah medals, which carries the title Datuk, in conjunction with this year's Federal Territories Day.

They thus joined former top shuttler Lee Chong Wei, cyclist Azizulhasni Awang, squash player Nicol David and diver Pandelega Rinong in getting Datukships for their sporting achievements.

The 24-year-old Abdul Latif is one of the nation's top para athletes who have excelled on the world stage in recent years.

He broke the world record three times en route to winning the men's T20 (learning disability) long jump title at the Rio de Janeiro Paralympics in 2016.

For that, Abdul Latif made history for being awarded the National Sportsman Award that same year.

The Perlis-born athlete retained his men's T20 long jump title at the Tokyo Paralympics last year.

Abdul Latif, who is the world record holder in his category, is also a two-time gold medalist at the World Para Athletics Championships in 2015 (Doha) and in 2017 (London).

"It's a big recognition for the para sports community. I have to thank everybody tasked with guiding and supporting me until today. "I would not be where I am today without their support."

"I will continue training with the same commitment as I have important assignments to aim for this year," said Abdul Latif, who is out to regain his title at the World Para Athletics Championships in Kobe, Japan, in August and then the Asian Para Games in Hangzhou in September.

Mun Yee is currently the only Malaysian athlete to compete in five Olympics (2000 Sydney, 2004 Athens, 2008 Beijing, 2012 London, 2020 Tokyo) and she is also one of the pioneer divers for the national team when the National Sports Council started to focus on diving in 1995 to prepare for the 1998 Kuala Lumpur Commonwealth Games.

Mun Yee took her last competitive plunge at the Tokyo Games last year and is currently assisting coach Li Rui in handling the national diving team.

"I never expected this to come as I have been doing something I love all this while. It's a big honour and big recognition for Malaysian diving also," she said.

Her glittering international medal count includes three at the world championships, seven at the Asian Games, three at the Commonwealth Games and an amazing 17 golds at the SEA Games.

Ippoh-born Mun Yee and Pandelega claimed the nation's first world championships medal when they took bronze in the 2009 edition in Rome.

Meanwhile, general secretary of the Asian Football Confederation Windsor John Paul was conferred the Datuk Seri title on the recommendation of the King.

"It's a big recognition for the para sports community. I have to thank everybody tasked with guiding and supporting me until today."

Izinkan kembali BDR

Kuala Lumpur: Majikan wajar membenarkan pekerja kembali bekerja dari rumah (BDR) susulan lonjakan kes jangkitan varian Omicron Covid-19 ketika ini.

Pemangku Presiden Kongres Kesatuan Sekerja Malaysia (MTUC), Mohd Effendy Abdul Ghani berkata, ada sesetengah majikan yang tidak boleh mengimplementasikan cadangan itu khususnya membabitkan operasi.

Beliau berkata, majikan juga boleh membuat pembahagian tugas jika keadaan memerlukan.

"MTUC" berpendapat BDR boleh memberi kesan kepada syarikat yang memfokuskan perkhid-matan dan operasi.

"Namun jika BDR tidak menjejaskan operasi maka majikan juga boleh mempertimbangkan cadangan itu," katanya ketika dihubungi semalam.

Beliau berkata, dalam keadaan penularan Covid-19 kini, keperluan BDR masih tidak mendesak namun majikan perlu bersedia.

Katanya, pemakaian prosedur operasi standard (SOP) yang ketat di yakini boleh mengawal penularan wabak virus Covid-19.

"Keadaan penularan kini, ia masih terkawal dan keperluan BDR masih boleh dijadikan pilihan majikan," katanya.
